Bogus Bills

Q. As part of my job, I oversee cash receipts from our truck drivers. Sometimes we come across counterfeit bills, and I have been sending them in by mail to the U.S. Secret Service office. Although they are supposed to send me a receipt for each bill, they did not do so for one phony bill a few months ago. Each time I call them they say they are busy and will take care of it. Since then I have found several more counterfeit bills, and would like to know if they will have an agent pick them up from me and give me a receipt at the same time. I must have these receipts to balance my books. F. D., Gardena.

A. Guy Spaman, agent-in-charge of the Los Angeles office of the Secret Service, said he will see to it that you get your receipt. He said he would send an agent to your office to pick up the remaining counterfeit bills. "It is standard procedure for us to send receipts upon receiving a counterfeit bill in the mail," Spaman said. "Sometimes we fall behind, however, due to the volume of mail and reports."

Book Bending

Q. Recently, my children and I returned a book to a Long Beach branch library. Since the library was closed, we dropped the book in a slot in the door, and were distressed to see this new book hit the floor with a thud, spread open and stop with its pages bent under it. How much damage is done to books returned this way? Can't some improvements be made such as a slide or conveyor belt to catch the books? Mrs. A. S. Long Beach.

A. Helen Fuller, assistant city librarian, told ACTION LINE that there is some damage to books returned in this manner, but the Long Beach branch libraries are using the best equipment available. "We have tried all kinds of return slots, and have written to other libraries and researched library literature to determine the best methods for returning books during closed hours," Miss Fuller said. She said that the problem with a conveyor belt is that the books pile up and create damage by falling against each other. She added that librarians prefer for people to return books while the libraries are open, but the slots are provided to offer the most convenient service. "The method of placing the book in the slot is important in lessening the amount of damage," she said. "If a book is placed in the slot carefully, there is usually no damage done to it."

Classified Information

Q. I am trying to locate a friend in Norway. Where can I get a list of newspapers in Norway? I would like to place some ads. S. C., Norwalk.

A. A list of that country's major newspapers will be sent to you by the consul general of Norway, 805 S. Gaffey St., San Pedro. Two of the largest newspapers in Norway are the Bergens Tidende in Bergen and the Aftenposten in Oslo. For help in contacting a Norwegian, you can contact the consul general. For help in contacting an American in Norway, write the United States Embassy, Drammensveien 18, Oslo, Norway.

Over the Rainbow

Q. I am trying to complete my collection of the Oz books, children's stories written originally by Frank Baum. The four volumes I lack, "The Yellow Knight of Oz," "Magical Mimics in Oz," "Handy Mandy of Oz," and "Scalawagons in Oz," were written after Baum's death by his daughter and others who wanted to continue the series. Can ACTION LINE tell me where I might find these books? K. C., Long Beach.

A. Although the original 14-volume series, which includes the well-known "Wizard of Oz" written by Baum himself, now is being reprinted, many of the later volumes are out of print. ACTION LINE checked with Henry Regnery & Co., Chicago publishers of the Oz books, and found they are not planning to reprint the books you want. C. B. Sims, owner of Academy Bookshop, 73 Atlantic Ave., offers a book-finding service, and will, for a small fee, try to locate the books for you. Needham Book Finders, 11813 1/2 San Vicente Blvd., W. Los Angeles, currently are searching for other Oz books, and said they will be glad to add your books to their list. You will be notified by mail if the books are found.

Unreported

Q. On Oct. 14 I wrote to the Colorado State Patrol and asked for the police report concerning my auto accident near Colorado Springs on May 30, 1968. I need the report for insurance purposes. I enclosed a check for $2 to cover any costs. My check was cashed, but I have never gotten the report. D. B., Long Beach.

A. ACTION LINE checked with the Accident Records Section of the Colorado State Patrol and the Colorado State Patrol Office. Both offices told us that there is no record of a state police investigation of your accident nor a financial responsibility report. Floyd Barker of the Colorado State Patrol Office asked that you write him the complete details of the accident, and he will try to locate some information for you. If no information can be found, he will see that your $2 is refunded. Write him at Colorado State Patrol, 4201 E. Arkansas Ave., Denver, Colo. 80222.

Workers, Firm See Oil Pact

'Agreement Near'
Say Negotiators for

Union Oil, Strikers
By GEORGE LAINE
Staff Writer

Negotiators for Union Oil Co. and the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union were reported "near agreement" Friday night as the nationwide oil strike completed its seventh day.

A spokesman for the union said the chances for an agreement with the oil industry giant appeared good.

"They're offering something pretty close to the 72 cents over 24 months we asked for," said Al Chandler, an OCAW official.

OTHER companies in negotiations with the union Friday failed to report progress after the fashion of Union Oil, although most agreed to resume talks today.

The breakthrough in the Union Oil talks came as some areas of the nation were reporting serious shortages of gasoline and a number of stations were forced to close.

Some violence marred Friday's otherwise hopeful activities. In Los Angeles, Signal Oil attorney Clarence Ash, 43, was the victim of a bombing attempt, and a Standard Oil tanker was fired on by a sniper.

Los Angeles police said windows in Ash's house—and windows in a neighbor's home as well—were blown out by the force of a grenade-type bomb.

Copter Hits Apartment, Pilot Killed

NEW YORK (UPI)—A helicopter pilot spotting traffic for a New York City radio station was killed Friday night when his craft spun wildly out of the sky and into the roof of a three-story Queens apartment building, touching off a roaring fire and causing evacuation of the building.

A witness said pilot Frank McDermott, 36, a former Air Force pilot, leaped from the stricken copter just before it struck the building. His body was found in a nearby courtyard.

Police reported one other injury in the apartment building fire which was fed by exploding fuel from the helicopter. The fire burned down as far as the second floor before it was brought under control.

U.S. Says 4 Auto Firms Delayed Smog Devices

Two Killed as Jet Hits on Catalina

A Navy F-4 Phantom II jet fighter crashed Friday in an isolated canyon about two miles southeast of Avalon on Catalina Island, killing both persons on board.

The aircraft had taken off earlier in the evening from Miramar Naval Air Station near San Diego. It crashed into Dack Canyon about 7:25 p.m.

By 10 p.m., rescuers had found one body and were searching the rugged terrain for the other, a spokesman for the Navy said. Identifications are being withheld pending notification of next of kin.

A private boat 25 miles southeast of the island radioed the Coast Guard that an explosion had been seen. The Coast Guard said the Navy reported loss of radio contact with the plane about the time of the crash.

Escaping Suspect Is Shot Down

A 23-year-old man, seeking to evade arrest in Huntington Beach, was fatally wounded Friday by an Orange County sheriff's deputy following a short pursuit.

Carl Arnold Sjolund Jr., 23, of 16372 26th St., hit once in the head by a .38-caliber bullet, died in Huntington Beach Intercommunity Hospital at 2:45 p.m., more than two hours after he was shot near his apartment.

The sheriff's office said deputies Ed Gould and Larry Schram had gone to the apartment to arrest Sjolund on felony warrants charging him with grand theft-auto, receiving stolen property and possession of marijuana.

Gould told investigators that Sjolund leaped out a rear door of the apartment after he had been told he was under arrest.

Gould said he chased the suspect down an alleyway and, after calling to him several times to halt, fired one shot with his service revolver. The slug struck Sjolund in the back of the head.

Guard 'Executed' as Gang Robs Armored Car of $6,000

BERKELEY (AP)—A Brinks armored car guard was slain in a daring $6,000 robbery Friday by four or five men.

Homes and parked cars along 20 blocks in Berkeley and Oakland were splattered with bullets from a .45 pistol and a 9-mm. submachine gun.

A fire bomb which did not explode was thrown into a crowded supermarket parking lot as the holdup men fled.

Brinks guard Joseph W. Martin, 49, of San Leandro was killed.

Berkeley police Lt. Tom Johnson said "a large Negro with a gun grabbed him around the neck, dragged him some 70 feet to a telephone booth, threw him to the ground and literally executed him. He fired point blank, standing over him."

Martin was hit in the chest, head and both arms by four bullets.

No one else was injured in the wild firing that followed as Brinks driver Barry D. Godwin, 25, of nearby Richmond, gave chase in the armored car, red light flashing and siren screaming.

The robbers blazed away from their late model sedan with a .45 pistol and submachine gun.

Godwin fired four shots from his .38 pistol and may have wounded one man. He rammed the geta-

500 Rally at CSLB to Back S.F. Rebels

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Education Editor

A peaceful student-age crowd of about 500 turned out Friday at California State College, Long Beach, for what was billed by its sponsors as an "S.F. State Support Rally," a "march to end bayonet-point education."

No injuries, damages or arrests were reported—in marked contrast to similar recent demonstrations at Valley State College and on other campuses. It was the first of its kind, locally.

Although S.F. State acting President S.I. Hayakawa, Gov. Ronald Reagan, State School Superintendent Max Rafferty and college trustees were favorite targets, rally speakers also hit CSLB President Carl W. McIntosh.

For the second time Friday the CSLB chief was accused of bad faith in offering a black studies program controlled by the college, not the Black Students Union.

Shortly before the rally, McIntosh's announcement of the forthcoming program drew contemptuous hoots from among some 30 Negro students invited to attend a press conference during which the program was outlined.

Hayakawa 'Not Too Optimistic'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Acting President S. I. Hayakawa and a student strike leader met Friday as San Francisco State College's union teachers picketed in defiance of a court ban and possible dismissal.

Hayakawa said he wasn't "too optimistic at this stage" on resolving the student crisis. And, he declined comment as to administration plans involving the American Federation of Teachers.

AFT pickets and student strikers paraded before the campus in orderly fashion. Only two arrests were made during the day. Hayakawa lunched with Roscoe Blount of the Black Students Union, Roman Catholic Bishop Mark Hur-

Files Suit Charging Conspiracy

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — The major automobile companies have conspired for more than a decade to delay the development and use of devices to control the automotive air pollution, the Justice Department charged Friday.

The charge was made in an antitrust suit filed against the four major auto manufacturers and their trade association in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles.

Seven other manufacturers of trucks and taxicabs were said also to be members of the conspiracy, but they were not named as defendants in the case.

The defendants are General Motors Corporation, the Ford Motor Company, Chrysler Corporation, American Motors Corporation and the Automobile Manufacturers Association, Inc.

ALSO NAMED as conspirators were Checker Motor Corporation, Diamond T. Motor Company, International Harvester Company, Kaiser Jeep Corporation, Mack Trucks, Inc., Studebaker Corporation, and White Motor Corp.

The defendants immediately denied the government's charges and said that the antitrust suit would result in slowing the development of pollution-control devices.

According to the suit, the conspiracy among the auto makers not to compete with each other in the development and marketing of pollution-control devices dates back at least to 1953 and has continued up until today.

The suit alleges that the companies agreed not only to refrain from competition in their own research and development of pollution-control equipment but also agreed not to compete with each other in trying to buy patents and patent rights from outsiders covering air pollution-control devices.

THEY AGREED, the suit says, "to seek joint appraisal of patents and patent rights submitted to any of them" by persons not a member of their agreement to cross license patents to each other.

The members of the alleged conspiracy, according to the Justice Department's suit, also agreed that no one of them would actually market a car containing new pollution-control devices before

Viet Cong Mortars Break Holiday Lull

Combined News Services

SAIGON, Saturday — The Viet Cong shattered a holiday lull in ground fighting before dawn today, ambushing American patrols and opening mortar bombardments of towns and military bases throughout South Vietnam. Initial reports listed at least 17 persons killed and 144 wounded in the early hours of the Communist attacks. Seven of the dead and 11 of the wounded were Americans.

Military sources said it was too early to determine if the attacks signaled the start of the long-awaited winter Communist offensive. The mortar bombardments struck at least 24 cities, towns and bases, most of them in the Mekong Delta. Hardest hit was a South Vietnamese training center near My Tho, which reported 93 men injured by 21 mortar rounds. A Communist ambush wiped out a nine-man American patrol one mile southeast of Dong Tam, the largest U.S. base in the delta. Five U.S. soldiers and a South Vietnamese scout were killed, and three U.S. troops were wounded.

A mortar shelling of Dong Tam itself damaged six U.S. helicopters and wounded eight men.

Soviets Fire 2nd Craft at Venus

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union Friday launched its second unmanned spacecraft in five days toward Venus for an intended twin soft landing on the planet in the middle of May. Venus 6 was described as identical to the 2,500-pound Venus 5, which was launched on the 150-million mile voyage last Sunday. An announcement by Tass said the instrumented capsules of the two spacecraft were designed to descend gently through the atmosphere of Venus and determine its characteristics, such as temperature of the atmosphere and its chemical composition, in different parts of the planet.

VIET WAR TOLL

SAIGON — A government report claimed Friday that 191,307 enemy troops were killed in the savage fighting of 1968. Another 21,050 were captured and 17,587 defected, the South Vietnamese said. In the past year the government reported its own losses were 17,486 killed. The U.S. Command, yet to publish final figures, placed American battle deaths at 14,521 through Dec. 28.

U.S. Copter Downed, 3 Killed

PHNOM PENH—Cambodian anti-aircraft guns shot down a U.S. helicopter this week killing its three-man crew. Cambodian chief of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk announced Friday. It was the most serious incident between Cambodia and U.S. forces in several years. Sihanouk said the aircraft was shot down nine miles inside Cambodian territory. U.S. helicopters have allegedly shot up public works trucks and other vehicles in Cambodia. The three victims were not identified.

Rio Welcomes 106-Degree Heat

RIO DE JANEIRO — A heat wave sending temperatures as high as 106 degrees Fahrenheit was hailed Friday as a mixed blessing by residents of Rio de Janeiro. They hope it will tend to minimize the fury of Hong Kong flu, reported en route to Brazil. At least 30 deaths due to heat have been registered in Rio since the beginning of the year. The high in the shade in the city this week has ranged from 104 degrees to 106 degrees.

Arms Embargo to Israel Protested

PARIS — President Charles de Gaulle's decision to embargo arms shipments to Israel continued Friday to draw fire in France. Rene Cassin, the Frenchman awarded the 1968 Nobel Peace Prize, called the decision "an act of partiality." "For once, France is identified with injustice," he said. Joseph Kaplan, the grand rabbi of France, speaking for the nation's 550,000 Jews, said the Jewish community in France was suffering from "profound sadness" at De Gaulle's embargo. Retired Gen. Pierre Koenig, French World War II hero and president of the French Committee for Solidarity with Israel, called the decision "immoral and unjust." Koenig said Israel has only two choices before it: "Defend itself or disappear."

U.S. Denounces Swedish-Red Ties

STOCKHOLM—Neutral Sweden Friday became the first non-Communist nation of Europe to establish diplomatic relations with North Vietnam. The U.S. denounced the move, saying it would not help the cause of peace. South Vietnam said bluntly the Swedish action would "aid the Communists."

Apollo Astronauts Mobbed at Waldorf

NEW YORK — Three voyagers who gave their names to the ages in man's first ride around the moon were mobbed at a state dinner Friday night at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel attended by 2,500 political leaders and dignitaries. A squad of detectives guarding the astronauts was overwhelmed by dinner guests who besieged the head table seeking autographs. "This started as a state dinner but turned out to be a love-in," quipped N.Y. Gov. Rockefeller.

The honored guests seemed undisturbed by the actions of the audience. They smiled and signed as many programs as were thrust in front of them. Earlier in the day the space trio was treated to a tickertape parade down Broadway.

148 Years of Publishing Ends

NEW YORK — The Saturday Evening Post, which has focused on the simple delights of American life since James Monroe was president, will expire Feb. 8, victim of changing times. It lost about $5 million in 1968 and faced a deficit of another $3 million this year, Martin S. Ackerman, president said. Ackerman said that after refinancing The Saturday Evening Post Co. with $15 million in new capital, he had assured stockholders and directors that regardless of his personal feelings, The Post would be shut down if it could not return a profit. He blamed the inroads television have made on the advertising dollar for the demise of the magazine, founded 148 years ago.

Below Zero Weather Chills Midwest

CHICAGO — The mercury dropped to 25 below zero in the upper Midwest Friday and cold weather chilled most of the nation. Frigid air moved southward across the plains and the Middle West. Afternoon temperatures remained below zero in the northern Midwest and readings were in the 30s as far south as the Gulf Coast states and the southern Plains. Thirty-mile-an-hour winds teamed up with an early morning low of 2 above zero to chill Chicagoans with the equivalent of 40-below-zero weather. Temperatures hit 25 below at Bemidji, Minn., 23 below at Fargo, N.D., and 14 below in Minneapolis and St. Paul, Minn.

U.S. Trade With Reds Up Slightly

WASHINGTON — U.S. trade with Communist areas of the world recorded some modest advances in the first 11 months of 1968 compared with the like period of the previous year, Secretary of State Dean Rusk reported to Congress Friday. The key figures were $190.1 million in exports to the Communist countries during January-November 1968 compared with $180.9 million in 1967, and $184.6 million in import in 1968 against $164 million in 1967.

Interest on Personal Loans Rises

NEW YORK — The First National City Bank, New York City's largest bank, announced Friday it was increasing interest rates on personal loans and other banks indicated they may follow suit. The interest rate will go up one-quarter of one per cent, effective Monday, a First National spokesman said. John J. Reynolds, senior vice president of the bank, said the move was made necessary by the increased cost of money generally and by an increase in operating expenses. Under the new rate, interest charges on personal loans will range from $5.50 per $100 to $6 per $100, depending on the length and type of loan.

Kidnaper Made Victim 'Wake, Smile'

MIAMI — Gary Steven Krist heard an FBI agent accuse him Friday as the man who masterminded the $500,000 kidnaping of Barbara Jane Mackle and took her picture before burying her in a ventilated box in an Atlanta hillside. "As she lay on the cold ground, 'George' took a picture with a polaroid camera," an FBI agent testified before a preliminary hearing. "Her eyes were closed in the first picture, so 'George' told her, 'wake up and smile,' and took another," said the agent, who questioned Miss Mackle after she was released from 80 hours entombment. The hearing was held before U.S. Commissioner Edward P. Swann in the Dade County jail.

Fish Boat Attack Probe Under Way

WASHINGTON — Rep. Thomas N. Pelly, R-Wash., said Friday the State Department told him an investigation is under way in the reported firing on an American fishing vessel by an Ecuadorian gunboat. The congressman said the fishing boat was 35 miles off the Ecuadorian coast Thursday night in heavy seas when a gunboat began firing at it with a machine gun. The U.S. vessel managed to outrun the gunboat.

Hijacker Back in U.S.

Combined News Services

A U.S. Army deserter who flew to Cuba with his young daughter in a hijacked private plane last summer returned voluntarily to American soil Friday and was arrested by FBI agents in Miami. Willis Jessie, 27, carried his 2-year-old daughter, Patricia Sue, when he stepped from a Mexican airliner which brought him from Mexico City. Jessie told newsmen he knew he would be arrested if he returned to this country but he wanted to "insure my daughter's future." He said she had no future in the Communist nation.

He had taken the girl from his estranged wife in West Virginia just a few days before he hijacked the private sightseeing plane that took off from Naples, Fla., last August. FBI agents met him in Miami as he stepped off the airliner carrying the girl in his arms. The agents whisked him away without allowing newsmen to talk to him. Earlier Friday, Jessie flew from Havana to Mexico City and was taken into custody by Mexican immigration authorities who placed him aboard a flight to Miami.

later marched to the administration building behind four youths bearing what appeared to be a flag-draped corpse — the "inhuman sacrifice" promised by several speakers.

Hitch Raps Concept of 'Overlord'

PASADENA (UPI)—University of California President Charles J. Hitch Friday rejected plans to create a "superboard" over the state's colleges and universities.

Hitch told the California Constitutional Revision Commission that the present university structure should be retained despite the current campus turmoil because it "has worked so well for so many."

He conceded "we have problems," but said the need to adjust to present realities and future estimates did not mean the present system needed to be "radically" changed.

"STUDENT discipline and the satisfaction of justified student grievances are very real problems and we are trying hard to deal with them effectively," he said.

Hitch said the university must "be free from partisan influence" and must "be protected from being forced to conform to whatever social, economic or political philosophy is fashionable at any given time, and we must be able to be responsible, within reasonable financial limitations, for our own development."

Student Leader Quits

VALLEJO (UPI)—The student body president of violence-plagued Solano College resigned Friday, saying he could not take the pressure. Jan Wood made the announcement of his resignation shortly before a telephoned bomb threat vacated the school. No bomb was found.

CSLB Unveils Black Study, Housing Plans

Plans for a black studies department and a non-profit corporation to provide housing for racial minority students were disclosed Friday by California State College at Long Beach President Carl W. McIntosh.

Dr. McIntosh emphasized the program grew out of research by the Black Students Union and faculty groups, but BSU members attacked him for lack of consultation with them during finalization of the program.

The college president, who held a morning press conference to announce the program, said both BSU and the college will propose faculty members for the new department.

Final acceptance will be conditional on the approval of both BSU and the college.

THE PRESIDENT will approve a chairman for the black studies department, but emphasized he won't make an appointment unacceptable to BSU.

Courses in the new department will open next fall, although some black studies classes will be offered in other departments next semester.

Current faculty will teach black studies courses during the spring and additional faculty will be appointed in September when departmental needs and budget resources are known, the president said. Courses offered will be

THE "FLAG," observers later determined, was a yellow cloth emblazoned with a coiled rattlesnake, similar in appearance to the "Don't Tread on Me" flag of the American revolutionists two centuries past. "It's our new motto," a militant said.

And the "corpse" proved to be a papier-mache pig "dressed" in a painted blue policeman's uniform.

A few militants tossed this effigy into the air, jumped on it like a football team tackling an opponent and tore it to pieces. The scattered shreds later were carefully picked up and carried away by students who also removed small bits of trash from the lawn.

The press conference confrontation came near the end of a 30-minute session in which Dr. McIntosh announced a black studies program that will begin next semester.

BLACK Students Union members listened quietly to McIntosh's presentation, but BSU President Tony Wilkins and other BSU leaders took the floor at the end of the press conference and heatedly denounced the college president.

Wilkins questioned whether black students and faculty would control the new black studies program and charged the administration was trying to "whitewash the campus."

He insisted only one of the eight demands made by BSU last month was being met — that of providing office space for the group.

HOWEVER, it was pointed out that the first BSU demand called for a black studies program before fall 1969, which McIntosh's proposal would beat by some eight months.

Wilkins was strongly critical of McIntosh's refusal to consider the BSU's eighth demand that the college "have complete autonomy from the Board of Trustees and political interference from Gov. Reagan."

The president labeled this "plainly unrealistic."

in the areas of literature, history, music, political science, sociology and several others.

A nonprofit corporation, College Community Housing Inc., was proposed by McIntosh to provide housing for minority group CSLB students.

McINTOSH'S announcements grew out of an eight-point list of demands BSU presented to the administration and faculty leaders in December.

Demands included black studies, black housing, office space, more black faculty and administrators, black personnel in nonacademic positions, more black students, a black student budget and CSLB autonomy from the Board of Trustees and Gov. Reagan.

Solution to many of the problems was in progress when the demands were presented, McIntosh said. Office space has been given to all minority groups but direct financing for BSU and unlimited enrollment of black students are not feasible, he said.

Shaw Bids to Block or Move Trial; Decision Due Monday

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Judge Edward A. Haggerty Jr. announced at the end of a 40-minute hearing Friday that he will rule Monday on defense motions to either quash the Kennedy assassination charges against Clay Shaw or move Shaw's trial out of New Orleans.

The trial is scheduled Jan. 21.

Although Shaw's attorneys had subpoenaed Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison for a Friday hearing, Garrison did not appear to confront Shaw. Judge Haggerty advised Shaw's attorneys that Garrison was absent and asked them to permit an Assistant Dist. Atty. James Alcock to answer the subpoena on behalf of Garrison.

Shaw was dressed in a dark brown suit and wore a striped tie at the hearing. The 6-foot, 4-inch Shaw appeared in ruddy good health.

Defense attorney F. Irvin Dymond attacked the constitutionality of a Louisiana law which permits 9-3 verdicts in jury trials of conspiracy cases.

After citing legal precedents in federal courts for unanimous jury verdicts, Dymond said, "Unanimity of jury verdicts is required." He further argued that the conspiracy case against Shaw could not be legally tried so long as that law existed; therefore, it should be thrown out of court.

ALCOCK disagreed, arguing that "federal statutes do not say that state criminal cases must be decided by unanimous verdicts."

Transcripts of television newsfilm broadcast made at a Dec. 11, 1968, news conference called by Garrison were offered for the record by WDSU-TV and WVUE-TV. At the news conference Garrison set the trial start for the day after Richard Nixon's inauguration as president.

"The moment of truth has arrived in this case," Garrison said at the news conference. "Even if I'm killed, the Clay Shaw case will go to trial."

The U.S. Supreme Court earlier that week denied Shaw's request for a restraining order against Garrison.

Shaw has denied Garrison's charge that he conspired with Lee Harvey Oswald and "others" to kill President John F. Kennedy in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

The Warren Commission, which heard hundreds of witnesses, concluded that Oswald acted alone and there was no evidence of conspiracy.

At Friday's hearing, Shaw's lawyers argued that statements by Garrison and his staff made it impossible for Shaw to get a fair trial in New Orleans.

Pueblo Inquiry Court Will Convene Thursday

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—A formal Naval court of inquiry will be convened Thursday to determine the facts surrounding the seizure of the intelligence ship USS Pueblo by North Korea, the Navy announced Friday.

The court will interrogate the Pueblo's skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher, and the other 81 surviving officers and men to find out exactly what happened when the vessel was captured by Communist gunboats in international waters off North Korea last Jan. 23. It will investigate also the subsequent treatment of the U.S. sailors during their eleven months of imprisonment.

Such a fact-finding court is convened whenever a U.S. Naval vessel is lost or damaged, the Navy said.

It is not a court-martial.

ALL OF the men, who were released at Panmunjom, Korea, Dec. 22, have completed debriefing except for Bucher, who has been undergoing treatment for malnutrition and wounds.

The Navy said the information developed during the debriefing will not be used by the court of inquiry, but it is expected generally the same information will be given under oath by the crew.

The men will be made available Tuesday to the president of the court, Vice Adm. Harold Bowen Jr., commander of Anti-submarine Warfare Services in the Pacific Fleet. There could be a delay past Thursday for the convening the court, the Navy said.

THE COURT, to be held at the Amphibious Base on Coronado Island, will be open except for classified testimony or when Adm. Bowen elects to close the court for discussion of a specific point. The court will submit a verbatim record of the proceedings and any appropriate recommendations to the commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet and the chief of Naval Operations.

Enlistments of 25 crewmen expire before the court will convene. The Navy said six men have voluntarily extended their service time and the other 19 were appearing before a medical board.

The board has recommended extensions of up which was detonated shortly before 1 a.m. outside his residence.

In Los Angeles, a Shell Oil spokesman reported everything at his company was "still status quo" with no new talks scheduled.

No evidence of fuel shortages was seen in the Southland Friday with supply and price of gasoline both holding fairly constant.

But elsewhere, the situation was less favorable.

IN NORTHERN California and western Nevada, gasoline supply was reported sharply depleted. In Detroit, Mich., about five per cent of the city's 2,000 service stations shut down until fresh supplies are available. Similar shortages were reported throughout Iowa, Nebraska, Illinois and other Mid-western states.

One oil industry spokesman—an attorney for a major company—said no new talks with the union are scheduled.

"As we understand it," he said, "we'll probably be getting together with a federal mediator along. We're going to sit tight and wait until we hear from one of them."

to three months for medical reasons. However, those who do not wish to extend can rebut the recommendation and be separated but at the same time will be waiving certain benefits which go to persons discharged for medical reasons.

Cmdr. E. Donald Kaufmann, senior medical officer in charge of the returnees, said the crewmen will be placed on limited duty status at North Island.

NAVY REGULATIONS call for men formerly held as prisoners to be billeted near a Naval hospital after their release so their condition can be checked for after effects.

Kaufmann revealed that Bucher lost about 100 pounds, down from 210 to 110, during the first three months of his captivity. He gained back all but 40 to 45 pounds before he was released. Kaufmann said Bucher wasn't eating well and suffered other hardships which will be brought out at the inquiry. Every crewman suffered vitamin and protein deficiencies during captivity, Kaufmann said. A good diet and some vitamin supplements have been the major treatment for the men.

Unthinkable ---but Then It Happened

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In the affair of the captured spy ship Pueblo, what the Department of Defense considered "unthinkable" in the spring became policy by winter, Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., contended Friday.

Allott, chairman of the Republican Policy committee, said he raised the question last spring about whether the United States could apologize to North Korea about the Pueblo and thus get it back.

"I was told by Defense Department officials in substance that such a move would be unthinkable on our part because it would cause a great loss of honor and prestige," Allott said.

Then, he noted, months later, the United States got the Pueblo crew back by signing a false apology and repudiating it in public.

Restrictions Urged

MARYSVILLE (AP)—The outgoing state fish and game director said Friday further restrictions are needed to protect the declining Central Malley king salmon population.

Director Walter T. Shannon made the proposal in his eighth and final annual report to the state Fish and Game Commission. Shannon is retiring.

Schools Eye Suit Over Federal Aid

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A number of California school districts are considering filing suit against the state of California over federal aid to impacted areas, it was learned Friday.

A spokesman for a group of attorneys representing the various school districts told United Press International that the state was deducting money from federal aid payments to impacted areas before passing the money on to the districts.

"This we feel is frustrating the federal enactment because the federal enactment contemplated some aid in addition to the regular school apportionment from the state," said the attorney, who asked not to be identified.

He said the districts did not get the aid intended under the federal legislation because the state was deducting part of it.

One stumbling block, which must be decided before the suit is filed, was whether it would simply seek to enjoin the state from future deductions or seek recompense for the past deductions or both. He said that probably would be decided within the next month.

The spokesman also said it had not been decided how many districts planned to participate in the suit. However, he said many smaller districts will participate but the larger districts such as Los Angeles are still undecided.

Pure Delta Issue Gets New Push

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Spurred on by federal pressure, state officials are speeding up attempts to settle a controversy over the quality of water in the Sacramento-San Joaquin rivers delta.

Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall has advised Gov. Ronald Reagan he considers the state's water quality control policy for the delta inadequate.

NOW, the State Water Resources Control Board has scheduled a month of hearings, beginning July 23, in an attempt to meet a mid-1970 deadline for finally setting delta quality standards.

Friday, a blue-ribbon panel of water experts commissioned by the Legislature recommended updating of the whole state's water quality standards.

THE problem in the delta — a roughly triangular area between Sacramento, Stockton and inner reaches of San Francisco Bay — stems from long-range state plans to divert Northern California water to the south.

Conservationists contend the loss of fresh water flowing into the delta, primarily from the Sacramento River, would allow ocean water to intrude further upstream. This salt water, they argue, would ruin farmlands, recreation areas and natural attractions.

Orgy Death Girls Face Adult Trial

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Three girls, two 16 and the other 17, were ordered to be tried as adults Friday in the murder case of Ann Jimenez, 19, who was found dead after a Haight-Ashbury orgy Dec. 27.

Juvenile Court Judge Raymond A. O'Connor ordered the girls, Beatrice Churchillwell, 16, Pamela Brian, 16, and Sandra King, 17, tried as adults after a two-hour closed hearing.

The girls, apprehended with eight young men, gave false names when they were arrested.

"The testimony was the most brutal I have ever heard in all my years on the bench. It was the most brutal, sadistic murder I have ever heard of in my life," Judge O'Connor said.

The Jimenez girl died after a three-hour ordeal in which witnesses told police she was kicked, beaten, raped and subjected to sexual indignities. Police said the girl was attacked after a false accusation about a stolen pair of hippie boots.

REAGAN SEES SENATE CLUB SURVIVING TEST

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said Friday he doesn't believe a group of young Democratic senators will succeed in trying next week to break up the club-like way the Senate has been run for years.

"I doubt if they have the horses to do this," the Republican governor said in an interview at Sacramento Metropolitan Airport as he prepared to fly to Los Angeles.

State Float Will Lead Inaugural

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's float in President-elect Nixon's inaugural parade will feature the 1969 bicentennial celebration of Nixon's native state.

"The Call to California 1769 — Forward Together 1969," is the official theme announced Friday by the State Chamber of Commerce, which is handling arrangements for the float.

The California float will lead the parade.

There will be a number of persons representing pioneer Californians including Father Junipero Serra, who established the first missions in the state, and Don Gaspar de Portola, commander of the Spanish expedition which established early missions and forts in what is now California.

The governor was asked if the attempt might have any effect on chances for passage of his creative society programs this year.

"I'll be very much surprised if it creates any great disruption," he said. Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco, has vowed to try next week to be elected Democratic floor leader in the Senate and lead an attempt to break up the traditional nonpartisan approach in the upper house.

VARIATION OF THE FRUG? FOLLOW THE LEADER FERTILITY RITE? Wrong on all counts. Actually, these five men are moving a 500-piece of window glass which measures 15 by 20 feet. The huge pane is being installed at a new suburban shopping center in Wilmington, Del.

BACKS MANY LIBERAL GOALS

Reinecke an Ex-Democrat

By BOB SCHMIDT From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Congressman Ed Reinecke, designated by Gov. Ronald Reagan to be California's next lieutenant governor, Friday revealed himself to be a former Democrat who still finds himself "in great sympathy" with the objectives of many liberals.

Meeting Capitol newsmen in a press conference delayed nearly an hour by heavy fog which forced his plane to be diverted to Oakland, Reinecke proved himself to be as attractive, articulate and quick of wit as Reagan had said he would be when the appointment was announced Wednesday.

Sitting beside Reagan at the press conference, the dark-haired dapper Reinecke thanked the governor "for this great opportunity that is now presented to me."

ASKED why he chose to give up his congressional career to come to Sacramento, Reinecke said, "I guess you have to ask why I went to Congress in the first place.

"I was a businessman. I was president of a small manufacturing concern. I felt the need for some business sense in government. I didn't see it at the state level, I didn't see it at the federal level. As a matter of fact, what happened here in Sacramento in 1958 is what changed me from a Democrat to a Republican."

He did not elaborate on the 1958 reference.

REAGAN, himself a former Democrat, displayed obvious surprise at Reinecke's disclosure. Later, when Reinecke had given an almost verbatim echo of the frequently made Reagan statement that "I didn't leave the party, the party left me," the governor turned to him and said "The similarities are cropping up to such an extent that you and I may become known as the Gold Dust Twins of politics."

Reinecke said he would be busy during the next few weeks wrapping up his affairs in Washington and finding a home in Sacramento for himself, his wife and her three children by a former marriage.

He will not be sworn in until his predecessor, Robert H. Finch, is confirmed by the U.S. Senate as the secretary of health, education and welfare in President-elect Nixon's cabinet. The 45-year-old Reinecke was asked if he could "exercise any independence" considering that he would become lieutenant governor by what was, in effect, one vote — Reagan's.

"Well, I am an independent person," he answered. "Yes, I think I can exercise my independence. Fortunately, we think alike so much of the time. I do intend to act very independent. I have been called down several times for it in Washington, and I may be called down for it here a time or two."

Reagan interrupted to say that he would appreciate "that independence."

"Let me point out," the governor continued, "that once (he becomes) a constitutional officer in his own right, he is beholden to no one from that point on except the people of the State of California."

Asked if he was a "bleeding heart liberal" in college, as Reagan had described himself, Reinecke answered, "I don't know that I would use that same adjective, but I was pretty wild in college. I didn't demonstrate, but I sure had some ideas."

He described himself as "somewhat conservative" in financial matters, and "when it comes to the more human issues, I sup-

Plan S.F. Firm Buy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Crowell Bollier and MacMillan announced Friday agreement in principal to acquire Gump's famed San Francisco specialty shop, for an undisclosed amount of cash and notes.

The store has been closed since Dec. 22 as the result of a fire which destroyed $1,225,000 in art objects and did a quarter-million dollars damage to the building. President Richard B. Gump said the sale was not related to the fire and the store would reopen soon.

pose I'm pretty much the same way, but I don't read that label the same as a lot of people read it today."

"I see a true conservative as a person who really wants to conserve the individual rights of everyone, and as such these labels become meaningless. That's why I don't like them.

"The people who claim to be marching for various purposes call themselves liberals, and yet I find myself in great sympathy with the objectives of their particular cause of the moment although I don't always agree with their methods."

He made it clear that he was opposed to the disruption on the campuses, saying that although he did not know much about what was going on, and was willing to "listen to anyone who says they have a solution," he would not do so "under threat of duress."

SKIRTS UN-MINIED; CAPITOL GLOOMY

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — As the Democrats predicted, the November elections which permitted Republicans to assume control of the Assembly has brought gloom to the Capitol.

To the males in the building, at least. The Capitol corridors are crowded with pretty messenger girls distributing press releases and performing various errands for the 80 assemblymen and their staffs.

Some of the girls are very, very pretty. And they dress in the fashion currently popular with young girls. Which gladdens the heart of most men with reasonably adequate vision.

But no more. Gloom has descended, because hemlines must descend.

The new Republican chairman of the Assembly Rules Committee, 48-year-old Eugene Chappie of El Dorado County, has requested that the girls be more "modest" in their dress.

"Modest" has been translated by the messenger girls' supervisor, Norma Wiley, as meaning not so mini miniskirts.

"I'm not a prude," Chappie, who up to now has been very popular with his colleagues, insists. "But honestly, some of these girls can't even bend over to get a drink of water without . . . er, without . . . well, they just can't bend over."

One young assemblyman, ironically a Republican, declined to comment on the situation. But, he asked, "Who is distributing the recall petition?"

Week's Wall Street Trend

By GEOFFREY PARKINSON

Still further weakness is expected over the shorter term. The initial recovery was technical in nature, not supported by any real upside or momentum. This could lead to at least a testing of recent lows. However, the market is very oversold on a shorter term basis. This factor alone would limit any additional weakness. It should also result in a general market recovery over the near term.

The intermediate trend has been challenged. The very sharp and broad correction did suggest a significant drop in confidence and interest. While the intermediate trend is not yet negative, the lack of any strong and dynamic rebound from recent weakness will suggest still lower levels over the near to medium term. Unless a recovery is based on a selling climax or a broad acceleration on the upside, it will be considered a near-term selling opportunity in relatively weak and neutral stocks.

INSTITUTIONS were neither big sellers or buyers during recent market weakness. While the lack of any real pressure was a positive factor, the lack of a more aggressive response to sharply reduced prices was a negative factor. This failure to respond suggests relative weakness in that this is a period when seasonal demand is expected to lift the market. Now a lack of strong support for any near-term recovery would not only limit a recovery, but reduce a significant underlying prop for the near-term market. Among the stocks under large-scale distribution which are regarded favorably on a technical basis are: Pan American World Airways, R.

J. Reynolds Tobacco, and Goodrich.

Recent trading recommendations —Brunswick, General Dynamics, Magnavox—were based on the expectation of a more dynamic near-term market outlook. The recent downturn in the market is expected to limit the near-term potential of these recommendations. While all of these stocks are expected to remain in over-all uptrends, they are no longer recommended for the near-term trading.

HOWEVER, selling at current depressed levels is not recommended either. Some general market recovery is expected after minor term weakness. A sluggish recovery by these issues would then provide the basis for selling in near-term accounts. A number of the recovery candidates—e.g. Gulf & Western, Little—have failed to hold above their near-term support levels and these should also be sold during any general market recovery.

Forecasting is an art—not a science. It does allow for some broad generalizations which can provide general guidelines. On this basis, we have decided to give our projection for 1969 based on a review of all the leading technical averages and indicators.

1969 should have a positive bias. The over-all up-trend pattern established in 1968 is expected to remain intact. The 1968 low of 820 DJI is not expected to be challenged. An intermediate correction is possible in the earlier part of this year. Any such decline would be expected to be followed by a wide-swinging base-building period leading to a broad upturn in the latter half of 1969, which could carry the DJIA to new record highs.

THE INCREASE in interest rates to consumers and to industry should help cool things a bit.

NEW YORK (UPI)—A one two punch hit the financial community this week and left it and the average consumer wondering what kind of a year was ahead.

The first punch was thrown by the pace-setting First National City Bank Tuesday when it raised the interest rate it charges its very best customers to 7 per cent from 6 1/2. The 7 per cent level represented a record high and it meant the average person soon would pay higher interest rates for financing a home, a car, or anything.

Wall Street—where investments are based on the prospect of future growth, future expansion and future profits—was taken aback at the prospect of tight money. Investors know that when money gets tight companies defer plans for expansion.

WITHIN minutes of the First National announcement, stock prices—which had been on a steady decline for a month—really dropped. They continued dropping as other banks across the country followed the lead set by First National.

By the end of the day the Dow Jones Industrial Average had fallen 10.94 points to 925.72, recovering in the final hour of trading from a loss as deep as 15.29. The previous day the market fell 15.23 as fear of tight money—or a money crunch—deepened.

The banks' boost followed the action by the Federal Reserve System in December when it increased the rate it charges banks to borrow money from it to 5 1/2 per cent from 5 1/4. The Fed's action was taken in an effort to cool off an overheated economy, slow the inflation rate and keep prices and wages from continuing upward.

THE INCREASE in interest rates to consumers and to industry should help cool things a bit.

All the interest rate talk followed a report that the major banks in the country stated their operating income increased during 1968 from 9.7 per cent to 17.5 per cent. The fourth-quarter figures for banks were not as good as the early part of the year and economists blamed this on the sharp increases in the cost to the banks of borrowing money.

First National announced it had record earnings for last year, 10.7 per cent higher than 1967. The bank's net operating earnings for 1968 totaled $124.78 million, or $4.66 a share.

POLITICS entered business when Lawrence F. O'Brien, former postmaster general and Democratic national chairman, was named president of McDunnel & Co. Inc., a New York investment banking firm.

Crime entered business when a misguided thief stole the order books for five New York Stock Exchange stocks, causing the exchange to halt trading in the issues for a short time. The theft occurred at a brokerage house. The books were in an attache case taken by the thief. A stock exchange official said there was no way in which the thief could profit from having the books.

In other developments: Olin Mathieson Chemical said it would invest $80 million in the home building firm in the next three to five years.

Westinghouse Electric realigned its top management in a move designed "to prepare for and stimulate long-range growth."

Armco Steel Corp. said it was temporarily withdrawing a 3.5 per cent increase in the price of nickel-bearing stainless steel after two other companies raised the price of that product 2.5 per cent.

Still further weakness is expected over the shorter term. The initial recovery was technical in nature, not supported by any real upside or momentum. This could lead to at least a testing of recent lows. However, the market is very oversold on a shorter term basis. This factor alone would limit any additional weakness. It should also result in a general market recovery over the near term.

The intermediate trend has been challenged. The very sharp and broad correction did suggest a significant drop in confidence and interest. While the intermediate trend is not yet negative, the lack of any strong and dynamic rebound from recent weakness will suggest still lower levels over the near to medium term. Unless a recovery is based on a selling climax or a broad acceleration on the upside, it will be considered a near-term selling opportunity in relatively weak and neutral stocks.

INSTITUTIONS were neither big sellers or buyers during recent market weakness. While the lack of any real pressure was a positive factor, the lack of a more aggressive response to sharply reduced prices was a negative factor. This failure to respond suggests relative weakness in that this is a period when seasonal demand is expected to lift the market. Now a lack of strong support for any near-term recovery would not only limit a recovery, but reduce a significant underlying prop for the near-term market. Among the stocks under large-scale distribution which are regarded favorably on a technical basis are: Pan American World Airways, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco, and Goodrich.

Recent trading recommendations —Brunswick, General Dynamics, Magnavox—were based on the expectation of a more dynamic near-term market outlook. The recent downturn in the market is expected to limit the near-term potential of these recommendations. While all of these stocks are expected to remain in over-all uptrends, they are no longer recommended for the near-term trading.

HOWEVER, selling at current depressed levels is not recommended either. Some general market recovery is expected after minor term weakness. A sluggish recovery by these issues would then provide the basis for selling in near-term accounts. A number of the recovery candidates—e.g. Gulf & Western, Little—have failed to hold above their near-term support levels and these should also be sold during any general market recovery.

Forecasting is an art—not a science. It does allow for some broad generalizations which can provide general guidelines. On this basis, we have decided to give our projection for 1969 based on a review of all the leading technical averages and indices.

1969 should have a positive bias. The over-all upward trend pattern established in 1968 is expected to remain intact. The 1968 low of 820 DJI is not expected to be challenged. An intermediate correction is possible in the earlier part of this year. Any such decline would be expected to be followed by a wide-swinging base-building period leading to a broad upturn in the latter half of 1969, which could carry the DJIA to new record highs.

Powerful 'Big J' Finds No Lack of Targets in Viet

By BUCK LANIER
Military Editor

ABOARD USS NEW JERSEY—There is no lack of targets for this Long Beach based battleship, operating off Vietnam.

Her skipper, Capt. J. Edward Snyder Jr., says he has "seen the target list in South Vietnam considered suitable for battleships, and I will never get to them all while we are over here."

The "Big J" is due home sometime next spring. What will happen to her then?

It would certainly be one-upmanship at its best with Russia if the ship were to be sent into the Mediterranean. Red screams would reverberate all the way to the moon.

"This is not impossible," a ranking 7th Fleet source told this correspondent.

Or the battlewagon could have a short turnaround in Long Beach and head back to Vietnam.

Or she could be decommissioned for the third time. Moving Big J into the Mediterranean would "present some logistic problems," the source said, "but it could be worked out."

Much depends on the new administration and peace talk results.

New Jersey's tagets are selected by the forces ashore, not by her. When Big J is firing in the Northern I Corps for the 3rd Marine Division, the job is done through the fire-support coordinating center.

This is way under a mound of red ditch near sprawling Dong Ha combat base, a few miles south of the DMZ.

AERIAL OBSERVERS over the DMZ derive comfort in Big J's presence.

"As long as Big J is in the area and firing now and then, the Communists in their holes with their flak machines and antiair weapons will usually stay down," said Army Capt. Fred Willis of Nashville, Tenn.

Army and Marine spotter planes work with the New Jersey in spotting, because the ship is also involved with supporting troops of the Army's Americal Division.

Several days ago, an observer plane took fire from NVA troops in trenches and bunkers a few miles north of Gio Linh.

An answer was called for, and the Long Beach destroyer USS Arnold J. Isbell responded. The "can" flattened 13 fortified bunkers with her five-inchers.

Big J has lot of friends for her spotters.

SACRAMENTO — Construction of a 3.1-mile section of the Artesia Freeway in Long Beach and Bellflower is expected to begin shortly, following the announcement by the State Department of Public Works Friday that a $7.3-million contract has been awarded.

Polich-Benedict Constructors of Rosemead received the contract, which authorizes 430 working days to build the segment between Atlantic Avenue and Lakewood Boulevard.

Plans call for an interchange at Lakewood Boulevard and undercrossings at Atlantic, Myrtle, Orange, Walnut, and Cherry avenues, Paramount Boulevard and Obispo and Downey avenues.

A pedestrian overcrossing will be built at Orange Avenue and an over-head structure will carry the freeway over the Union Pacific Railroad tracks.

Currently appearing on the World of Life TV program, she is in the Southland to record her fourth album with the Ralph Carmichael Orchestra. All are invited to the concert.

The number of American missionaries preaching the Gospel of Christ in foreign lands has increased during the past eight years by 30 per cent. That figure may startle some church members who've been reading premature obituaries of the missionary enterprise.

Official reports from Protestant and Catholic mission societies show that they had a total of 27,879 people serving abroad in 1960. The 1968 figure is 36,356 — an increase of 8,477 or 30 per cent.

The big Protestant denominations related to the National Council of Churches still have the largest contingent of missionaries — 10,930. But they have shown the smallest growth in missionary manpower since 1960. Their combined increase has been only 8.5 per cent.

Protestant denominations affiliated with the Evangelical Foreign Missions Association increased their overseas staffs by 28 per cent, from 5,744 to 7,365 in 1968.

Catholic mission societies registered a 42 per cent increase over the same period, from 6,782 to 9,655. Most of the additions went to Latin America, where there is an

SEX MORALITY DEBATE ON CAMPUS Pike Ran Into a Formidable Foe

By LES RODNEY

Pepperdine's Dr. Banowsky Earns Ovation; Preaches in L.B. Church

A P.S. is needed to last week's brief story of the debate on sexual morality between Bishop James Pike and Dr. William Banowsky, executive vice president of Pepperdine College.

After popping out of the packed UC Santa Barbara auditorium to the phone in order to make the deadline for Saturday's news section, we returned in time to hear Banowsky's summary. It won an ovation which probably gained him at least a draw for the evening — if one measures the "winner" of such a discussion by volume of applause.

This is something in a public debate with the brilliant, mercurial, free-swinging Pike, an established "personality" with all the advantages that automatically confers, advantages the former Episcopal bishop is not reticent about utilizing.

BANOWSKY (who incidentally has begun a regular schedule of preaching Sundays 10:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. in Long Beach Uptown Church of Christ, 3707 Atlantic Ave., as a co-minister) hardly fits a stereotypical image of an uncompromising moral code advocate — from conservative Pepperdine to boot.

In fact, the 33-year-old Christian educator is something of a swinger in his own right. He fractured the crowd (more than 1,000, with school not in session), right at the start in thanking Pike for agreeing to the forum, saying: "How many people do you know who would interrupt a honeymoon just to TALK about sex?" If it was not what you are apt to hear Sunday at Uptown Church of Christ, it was perfectly great in the Santa Barbara context. The recently married Pike was far from the last to laugh appreciatively.

Banowsky was no featherweight one-note arch-fundamentalist lamb being led to the verbal slaughter in college land. He is IN this complex, changing world and knows his blacks and grays. Which doesn't mean that he is a compromiser on the Gospels and the way he sees the mind of Christ.

He got his PhD in speech at USC at age 26. He can handle a surfboard with his sons, and handles a leading role in Pepperdine's multimillion dollar expansion to a second campus in the Malibu area. He took on Playboy Magazine's religion editor in a Texas campus debate. His latest book "The Gospel According to Playboy" will soon be published by Harper & Row. When he was chatting with the reporters before the debate, he didn't recoil in pious horror from the young man representing the "Free Press," but engaged him in friendly, though challenging conversation.

READILY granting that "ethical decisions are never easy to make," Banowsky affirmed his belief throughout the evening that some things are always right and some things always wrong. Sex outside of marriage, he says with no ifs and buts, is always wrong.

Pressed by Pike on the Biblical story of Judith, who was prepared to save her people by submitting to the enemy leader, Banowsky seemed in trouble. After some give and take about apocryphal stories, he did say that while it is always wrong, not all violations of the moral law "are equally reprehensible."

But, he added (when he got the chance from the quick-speaking Pike) Christian morality is well aware of the exceptional ethical situations but speaks primarily to the realistic problems of daily life. Situation ethics, he said, "makes the far-out exception the rule by which the principles regulating daily life are eroded."

Christ, he emphasizes in his argument, was sympathetic to the particulars of the exceptional situation, but never allowed the situation to dictate what was right or wrong. For example, he speaks of an even better-known Biblical episode, saying: "While concluding that the situation suggested mercy for the adulterous woman, He nevertheless plainly labeled her adultery for what it was: 'Go thy way and SIN no more.'"

BANOWSKY MADE clear that he differentiates between Pike's thesis that in some cases situations and motivations alter moral cases, and the philosophy of "antinomianism" (no-law-ism, I do what I do).

"We're both Christian men. Bishop Pike struggles with deep moral issues," he said, to the probable discomfort of some who view Pike as a direct agent of Satan. He spoke of spending a pleasant day as guest of the Pikes at the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions. "We're both against the Playboy philosophy. At least," he added, turning to Pike, "I have."

ven't seen any center folds in your books."

If doing the "loving thing" (situation ethics) is to be the criterion, left to the judgment of the youngsters involved, who is to decide what is the loving thing, he asks.

Pike, in all fairness, did say that in most should-we-or-shouldn't-we situations out of wedlock the living thing is NOT to have sexual relations. He won predictable applause from the students by saying that if teens are "old enough to kill" (Vietnam), they are old enough to make the crucial personal ethical decisions in their own conscience. "And old enough to vote!" he threw in to another great cheer.

This, countered Banowsky, "is being naive about human nature. It refuses to face up to the evil in human hearts. In this century," he added, "there has been more cruelty, blood and slaughter than ever before. I refuse to believe we have advanced one inch. How can we speak about leaving each teen-age boy to his self to decide what is ethical?"

THE CONCEPT, he continued, is "disastrous to society." "Look at the consequences of sex license — more venereal disease, pregnancies out of marriage, a weakened society. The act is not personal, but irretrievably social."

On the personal level, he insisted, "no act of sexual intercourse can be regarded as private, for it involves another, who will never be the same. Exploitation is the proper word."

"OK, let's be pragmatic," he urged. "Does it work? Does the new morality bring wholeness, or does it bring sorrow and heartache?"

Jesus, he says, was no prude: "He also offered life after birth. He knew of human enjoyments. He would be offended not at human joy but at the concept of living for self gratification. We need to release this real Jesus to the world, which needs Him."

Banowsky wound up with a salute to young people. "I'm challenged by this generation," he said. "I know you are not selfish. I know why you are popping off against middle class morality. I'm grateful for your commitment. But provide some leadership!"

Martin Luther King, he recalled, not long before his assassination, said "if a man is not ready to die, and doesn't know what he is ready to die for, he is already dead."

His final ovation was tendered not only by the older folks on hand, but by a majority of the students. He had definitely at the very least, grabbed their attention, and undoubtedly, stimulated some thoughtful consideration of his tough stand for an idealistic Christian sexual ethic.

AFTERWARD, in a brief question and answer session with the press, Pike acknowledged Banowsky's effectiveness. "After this, I will speak a little differently on the topic, perhaps he will too. We form each other, if we maintain an open mind ... that's true dialogue."

Asked about the "New Left" on the campuses, Banowsky said (and Pike agreed) that "it has the same sins as the 'Old Right' — the either-or extremism, the not listening, the arrogance. The extremists of left and right tend to meet finally ..."

Interestingly, despite the strong differences of opinion before a largely college-age audience, there was not a sign of the latter-day syndrome of closed-minded rudeness, shouting, interruptions, or walk outs. People came to hear two points of views, and listened.

CONFIDENT LIVING

Principles That Work for You

By NORMAN V. PEALE

Flying in a two-motor prop plane I was invited through the stewardess to visit the captain in the cockpit. I did so and we had an interesting chat.

The complexity of an instrument board always appalls me, and I asked, "How in the world can you know what to do with that many dials and buttons and what have you?"

"Well," he said, in an amused way, "you have to know if you're going to fly the plane!"

The weather was hazy that day, visibility poor. I remarked, "It beats me how you ever manage to come down out of this immense sky and land on an airstrip when you can't even see it. You must have an awful lot of confidence in those instruments."

"There are three things you have to have confidence in," replied the pilot. "One is the instrument panel; you have to trust it. Second, the man in the control tower; you must trust him absolutely. And then you must also trust the Man Upstairs. If you can't trust these you had better stop flying."

"SO THEN," I commented, "it boils down to faith, doesn't it?"

Whereupon this big fellow, with earphones on, scrunched around in the pilot's seat — turned his head and gave me a big smile. "Everything in life," he said, "boils down to faith." He added, "Faith will take you through anything."

And he is right. Faith will, for a fact, take you through anything.

Let me tell you about a boy by the name of Sam Reeve who grew up on an Indiana farm 40 years ago when farm prices were low and most farmers were impoverished. This boy's folks were so poor that the first time he ever wore a suit was for his graduation from high school. And a neighbor supplied that. His one

FROM THE PULPIT
Much of that which is being done in the name of Christ today is not a benefit to His cause at all. Claiming the name "Jesus" without the evidence of a changed life and the adherence to Scriptural principles, is a mockery. Don't make Jesus an excuse for what you are doing.
One good test is does the ministry of a particular group benefit the local Bible believing church? If it is anti church— beware! God's program for this dispensation is a work accomplished by and through the local congregation. Here it is that the new born Christians find the spiritual food and guidance they need.
How much better would your spiritual life be if you had a fundamental church to attend? Come to Calvary! Calvary is for you!

ABOUT CHURCHES OF CHRIST

The Churches of Christ, with which Pepperdine College is connected, make up one of America's fastest growing Protestant groups, with 2½ million members. Formerly a part of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), they went their own way early in this century, stress a conservative, Bible-centered theology, and a strictly congregational policy, with no organization larger than the local church. There are seven Churches of Christ in Long Beach.

idea was to get away from the farm into something offering more security.

He had one job in the mines, but in his eagerness to earn money fast got fired for taking foolish risks. He then went to Detroit, arriving there with exactly $1.50 in his name, and got a job in an automobile factory. The pay was so good — by his modest standards — that he was able to save a big chunk of it. He wanted security and soon had $400 stashed away. But he still did not feel secure.

Sam's thinking had been profoundly affected by something he chanced to read. He had been raised in a home where there was daily Bible reading. He had kept this practice up. One day he came across the passage that says, "Give to others, and God will give to you ... all that you can hold. The measure you use for others is the one God will use for you." Which means, of course, that how you treat others is how life will treat you.

Well, to Sam Reeve's great good fortune he thought about this proposition long and earnestly and decided that he had complete faith in it — he believed it was true. He further reflected that when you are always thinking about what you want for yourself you naturally worry about your future; but if your mind is on giving, you tend to do the best you can today and let tomorrow take care of itself. And this, he reasoned sagely, is the only real security.

With his savings he bought half interest in a run-down filling station. And instead of merely getting the place shipshape and then just waiting for people to stop for gasoline, he started finding ways of being helpful to his neighbors. He let it be known to families living round about that he would be glad to turn on their house lights after dark when they were out of town; he would pick up grocery orders; he could be called upon to meet unexpected guests at the airport. And after every snow storm he would plow out any driveway in the neighborhood. All without charge. He made

'Most Dynamic Christian' Mary Webster Is at Grace

"The most dynamic Christian I have ever met," is the tribute paid to Mary Webster by Methodist's famed Dr. E. Stanley Jones, with whom she has crusaded through the world for 10 years.

Miss Webster begins five days of "spiritual renewal" meetings Sunday at Grace Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m. each night, following the 8:45 and 11 a.m. services at which she will preach. The evening services each night will be followed by a "talk it over" session at 8:30.

In his book, "Growing

MARY WEBSTER

Spiritually." E. Stanley Jones devotes 20 pages to the redheaded, freckle-faced housewife from an Illinois farm.

Says the Grace pastor, Rev. Stanley Brown: "No one can turn a phrase or express a truth so penetratingly as Mary Webster. She loves everything and everybody — and everyone understands her conception of love. She is funny, down to earth, and on fire with concern for everyone she meets ... Her life is a triumph out of the tragedy of an auto accident in which her husband was killed."

these generousities a part of his way of life. He never discontinued them.

AND AT his gas station it was service plus. The moment you drove up three men would simultaneously attack your car — wiping the windshield, diving under the hood asking how much gas.

Do you wonder Sam Reeve was eventually invited to a White House conference along with other outstandingly successful small businessmen? By that time his station (in a highly competitive area) had 12 pumps and was pumping around 1,200,000 gallons of gas per year, as compared with a national average of 20,000 gallons for all filling stations big and small.

The President asked him how he had achieved all that. Reeve's answer was, "I just tried to give away more than my competitors."

But to do that and keep doing it you must truly believe in it. It takes faith.

If your life or job is not what you want it to be, tell you what. Get a new angle on things. Have more faith in your instruments and give more. Those are dynamic spiritual and practical principles that work.

25TH YEAR Open House Celebration by Released Time Kids

The 25th year of Released Time religious education in the Long Beach area, considered a model by many other localities, has been saluted by mayoral proclamations in Long Beach, Lakewood and Signal Hill.

"Open House" is being held by the teachers and students of the three faith groups which participate in the program: Association of Evangelical Churches, Council of Churches, and Roman Catholic.

Parents of the 4th and 5th grade children, friends and all others who are interested are invited to attend the demonstration subject presentation, materials and methods used in a typical session. Place and hour of class may be obtained from a participating student, his school, or one of the faith groups.

Began in 1945, the program now brings an introduction to religion to 4,000 children through skilled, qualified instructors.

The celebration will be highlighted Sunday, Jan. 19, 3 p.m. in St. Anthony's Cafeteria, with a program by students from each group. Details of the hour of fellowship will appear in next Saturday's paper.

Tom Jones Comes on Strong

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

There is nothing subtle about a performance by Welsh singer Tom Jones, the latest in any number of domestic and imported "now" singers who was introduced on his own special on Ch. 7 which will feature him in a series.

Jones has a voice that makes most of the shriekers and shouters in the currently faddish musical snakepit sound like pipsqueaks in the nightmare and performs with the agile, jerky movements that set sympathetically attuned mentalities to vibrating.

He is an obvious talent in an area of entertainment that is overloaded with gimmickry, and while he appears occasionally to be a bit old to be carrying on like that it is nice to see that someone who appears to be of an older generation can rock with the youngest. Maybe he just looks more mature than he is.

THE SHOW was taped in London and Jones had a well-made production, aided by some U.S. talent, notably Juliet Prowse.

Dick Cavett, who lost a morning show but has been picked for a future night show, offered a monologue. Cavett is highly praised by some TV viewers. You like him, OK. Personally, I'm a little sick of guys who tell jokes like: "I got this basket of fruits. I never could figure out how all those guys got in that basket."

I TUNED in on "Drag-net" expecting another one of those little documentaries on life in the Los Angeles Police Department and was pleasantly surprised to find the show dealing with a police case.

There is no dearth of murder on TV, but Jack Webb, with all cylinders functioning smoothly, gives you an interesting angle—in this case an off-beat elderly character, played ably by Burt Mustang, who kibitzes himself

SEAGOING ROYALTY, DESIGNED FOR PLEASURE, ARRIVES IN LOS ANGELES HARBOR
MV Princess Carla, Newest Member of the Princess Cruises' Fleet, Will Ply Caribbean Waters

PRINCESS CARIBBEAN-BOUND

Carla Gets Big Sendoff

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Maritime Editor

The luxury cruise ship Princess Carla set sail for the Caribbean Friday in a cacophony of blasts from her steam whistle, cries of "Bon voyage!" from her Los Angeles Harbor dockside and squawks of surprised gulls.

The $20-million vessel pulled away from Berth 146, dragging a blanket of multihued paper serpentine behind her.

The 20,500-ton cruise ship was sailing from her new home port for the first time, with 570 hand-waving passengers aboard.

When the super-modern cruise ship arrived twelve hours earlier — ending her maiden voyage — she was given a noisy welcome as spraying fireboats, sirens wailing, escorted her into port.

On board were almost 600 passengers, airlifted to Acapulco to board the ship for New Year's Eve at sea.

Shortly after the Carla docked she was boarded by a swarm of U.S. Coast Guard officers who inspected the vessel for safety regulations required of all ships carrying passengers from U.S. ports.

Capt. George Walker, officer-in-charge of the marine inspection section, said the ship passed with "flying colors."

The new cruise ship was originally scheduled to sail from Los Angeles Dec. 30, but was delayed by a labor problem in Italy where the ship was built.

Shortly before sailing, Stanley B. McDonald, president of Princess Cruises, operators of the Carla, held up his hands in a gesture of blessing and said, "Thank heavens, we are back on schedule."

Leaving at almost the same time as the Carla was her sister ship, the Princess Italia, tied-up immediately astern.

The Carla sailed on a 17-day sea-air cruise to the Caribbean by way of Mexico, Panama Canal and South America.

Viet Tot Mending 'Nicely' After Heart Operation

By BILL HOMER
Staff Writer

A team of six physicians at Children's Hospital of Orange County performed open heart surgery on a 2-year-old Vietnamese girl Friday after the operation had been delayed three times.

Dr. John M. Somerndike, spokesman for the surgery team, said Nguyen Thi Lah Phoung was "as well as can be expected" and recovering nicely following the five-hour operation.

He predicted a normal, healthy life for the child, barring complications during recovery.

The operation was performed to correct a congenital heart defect which caused Nguyen's blood to be improperly oxygenated.

Spokesmen for the hospital said Nguyen's mother, Mrs. Le Thi Lan, who arrived in the United States the day before Thanksgiving, saw the child twice following the operation.

The mother, who lives in a tiny village near Da Nang, is the wife of a South Vietnamese soldier. She has been staying with Dr. Albert Goh and family, of Orange, since her arrival.

MRS. LE, WHO HAD BEEN "very tense" prior to Friday's surgery, a spokesman said, is now relaxed and happy.

Her daughter spent five hours in the hospital's recovery room before being taken to the intensive care ward, where she will spend about two weeks.

The operation was postponed three times previously, by an ear infection because one of the surgeons was ill, and because of a lack of sufficient whole blood supplies during the recent Hong Kong flu epidemic.

The blood shortage was corrected when an "uncountable" number of persons volunteered to supply blood after reading of Nguyen's plight.

Nguyen and her mother were brought to the United States on the initiative of Navy Lt. David Henning and his wife, Linda, a nurse, of Santa Ana.

Periodic Tippler Changes His M.O.

Harbor Division police have known Joe M. Salas, 50, for a long time. Every so often he is picked up as a drunk.

Friday, though, it was different. Salas decided to become a desperado.

As related by the eight officers who ended up at Salas' house at 848 W. Santa Cruz St., here is what happened:

Two officers responded to a report of a burglar in a garage at 853 W. Sepulveda Blvd. — just behind Salas' house.

All fingers pointed at Salas, so officers went to his home and hammered on the door.

"I'm not coming out. You'll have to come in and get me," he shouted.

The two officers stationed themselves at either end of the house and radioed for a sergeant.

They radioed again minutes later when they perceived a man inside with a sawed-off rifle. They heard the unmistakable sound of the lever action of the weapon being cocked.

ABC Building Plans Approved

Working plans for construction of an ABC Unified School District central administration building and continuation high school on a 34-acre tract at 166th Street and Norwalk Boulevard were approved Friday.

The plans must now be approved by the State Department of Education.

MOTHER AND NOW-MISSING DAUGHTER
Mrs. Janet Davis With Baby, Donna Marie

Wide Search On for 'Stolen' Baby

By RUSS MacDONALD
Staff Writer

An all-points police bulletin was issued Friday for a 21-month-old Long Beach baby believed stolen from her home by a woman sifter.

Donna Marie Davis, blonde-haired and blue-eyed, has been missing since Wednesday afternoon from 1450 Gaviota Ave.

Her mother, Mrs. Janet Davis, a waitress, said the child was left in care of Laura Mae Knettle, about 35, who had lived with Mrs. Davis for several months.

The Knettle woman, Mrs. Davis said, once had been treated for amnesia at an Oregon state hospital.

The mother also said the babysitter had taken the child to Los Angeles previously without permission, but later returned.

Because of the previous incident, disappearance of the baby and sitter Wednesday afternoon was not reported by Mrs. Davis until Thursday.

Police Sgt. Bob Dillon said a straw hat, some diapers and baby pajamas are missing.

LAURA MAE KNETTLES
Suspect in Baby-Theft

The child was wearing a blue blouse with red trim and white shoes when last seen by her mother, but may be clad in a pink sleeper.

Sgt. Dillon said the Knettle woman has brown hair and eyes, is about 5 feet, 5 inches tall and weighs approximately 110 pounds. She may be wearing a beige tweed coat and white tennis shoes.

Pact Award Due on Plaza Design for Queen Mary

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

A contract for the design of Queen Mary Plaza, the complex of buildings, moving walks, escalators and towers to provide pedestrian access to the ship, will be recommended Tuesday to the City Council.

City Manager John R. Mansell will propose the city award a $72,000 contract to the joint venture of M. A. Nishkian and Co., engineers, and Killingsworth, Brady and Associates, architects.

Mansell said the preliminary estimated cost of the plaza development is $1.2 million.

"Work is well advanced for the creation of the 16-acre fill adjacent to Pier J which, together with land on Pier J, will provide the site of the supporting facility for the Queen Mary permanent anchorage," Mansell said.

The city manager said the city engineer's office is now preparing plans for surface improvements, including roads, parking lots, lighting, utilities and beautification.

2 Hospital Clinics to Be Moved

Two widely known clinics at Pacific Hospital of Long Beach, 2776 Pacific Ave., will be moved Monday to a nearby building.

Both the Community Epilepsy Clinic and the Glaucoma Clinic, formerly housed in the main hospital building, will now be located at 2785 Pacific Ave., across the street from the hospital.

The Glaucoma Clinic seeks to find victims of the eye disease glaucoma, which can cause blindness if not discovered and treated in time.

Patients are seen the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month. The detection service is free but an appointment is necessary.

The Community Epilepsy Clinic serves children and adults with seizure disorders. Services include diagnosis, counseling, psychological evaluations and follow-up care. Clinic days are 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Tuesdays. Appointments may be made between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

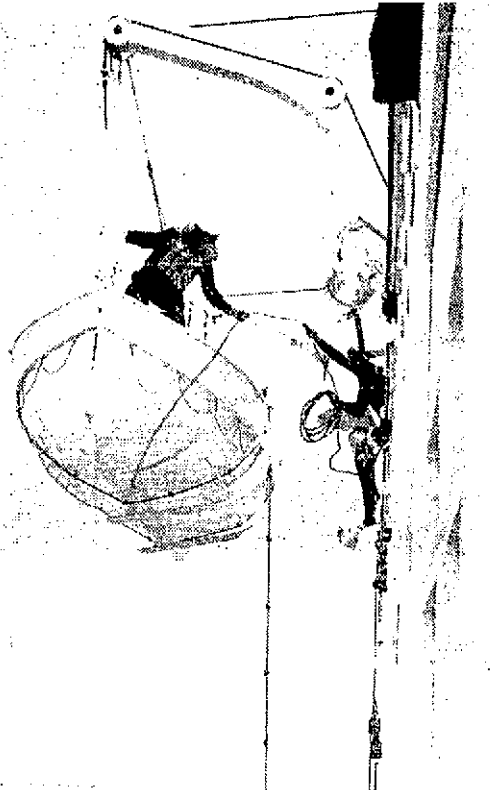

THE WORK to be performed by the Nishkian and Killingsworth-Brady group will include design of a tour office, plaza staging canopies and an overpass structure connecting the plaza with the wharf over the main roadway and the valet and preferred parking lot.

It also will include design of necessary escalators and moving walk connections, together with two ship-access towers on the wharf immediately adjacent to the ship, Mansell said. Each of the towers will have four brow connections to the ship, each at a different level.

Mansell said the two firms currently are performing "rather extensive" consulting services for Diners Club on the Queen Mary, and the city award will insure "prompt services at reduced cost and complete compatibility of design" for both public and private construction.

Pest Control Meet

About 70 area members of the Pest Control Operators of California will hold their annual district installation banquet at 7 tonight at Hody's Restaurant, Lakewood. Charles Wane of Long Beach will be installed as president.

WHEN A SAILOR NEEDS A PORTHOLE
Crewmen Abandon Lifeboat During 'Drill'

Lifeboat Drill: A Roman Holiday

By DICK EMERY

You couldn't tell what they were saying — it was all in Italian.

But what it sounded like, during lifeboat drill for crewmen of the glorious Italian cruise ship Princess Carla Friday noon, was this:

"All the other lifeboats got down fine — what's the matter with us?"

"I can't figger it out, but a little wheel is stuck."

"Look down below, all the others are looking up laughing, waiting for us to fall into the water."

"Why don't we just go back UP?"

"No use, Kelly. It's down or nothing."

"Okay, so it's down. Let the blankety lifeboat DOWN, somebody!"

"No soap, Roscoe! She's stuck right where she is — maybe we gotta spend the winter out here in the draft and never get home to sunny Italy!"

"But look, look! Someone is opening a window right over our stalled lifeboat! We can crawl through the window, to safety back inside the ship!"

"Okay now, one at a time, you guys, and quit shoving! You want these foreigners to think you can't do a good lifeboat drill? In you go, and make it snappy!"

Or, anyhow, that's what it sounded like — and later the U.S. Coast Guard, which deals with ship safety, cautiously was saying nothing about the Princess Carla drill.

Mercy Planes Arrive Here

By HERB SHANNON
Aerospace Editor

Two giant cargo aircraft released from military service arrived in Long Beach Friday to be equipped for the first U.S. relief airlift to Biafra.

The C-97G Stratofreighter transports were delivered to Flight Test Research Inc., 2680 E. Wardlow Rd., which will operate the mercy airlift to victims of the Nigerian civil war.

The Long Beach aerospace research firm has been designated by Joint Church Aid — USA, sponsors of the relief effort, to plan the operation and fly the planes.

Special cargo handling gear, spare parts, tools and maintenance equipment will be installed in the aircraft before departure for Africa next week.

Two more Stratofreighters destined for the U.S. airlift will join the first two on the Portuguese island of Sao Tome, the supply base about 150 miles off the Nigerian coast.

A team of 27 pilots, navigators, cargo handlers and mechanics headed by Flight Test Research President Russell P. O'Quinn will shuttle supplies of food and medicines from the island to the Biafran airstrip at Uli Ihiala, 100 miles inland.

The airlift will more than triple the present flow of supplies to Biafra through airlifts conducted by various European religious groups and the International Red Cross with chartered passenger airliners. The American planes, with a payload of 20 tons each, will be the first cargo aircraft to be used in the mercy effort.

The two aircraft flown to Long Beach Friday from Salt Lake City were delivered by flight crews of the 151st Military Airlift Group, Utah National Air Guard, previous operators of the planes.

Papers transferring ownership of the aircraft to Joint Church Aid were presented to O'Quinn by Lt. Col. Ray P. Greenwood Jr., squadron commander.

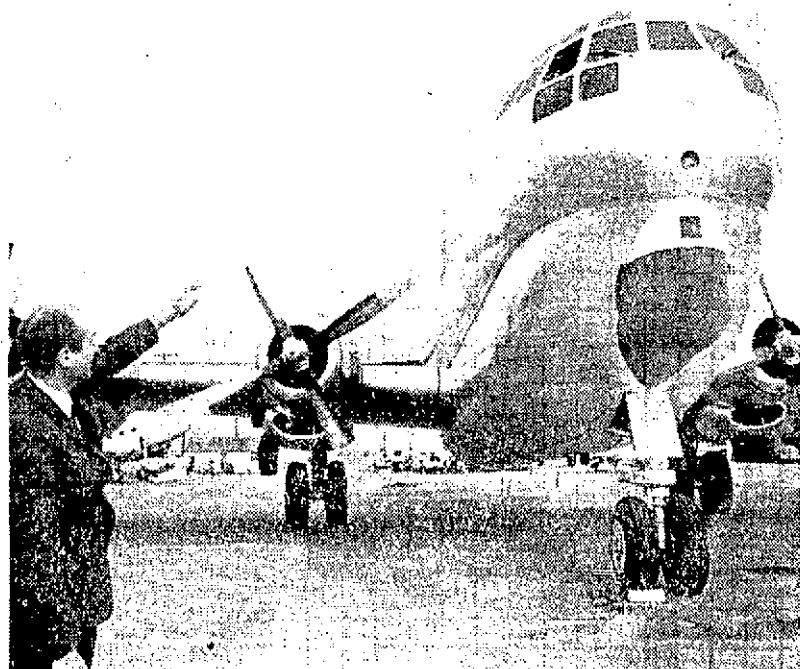

The new national religious group is composed of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish relief agencies.

While mechanics and technicians today prepared to equip the planes with roller tracks and other devices for speedy loading and delivery of cargo, Flight Test Research staff scientists completed planning for the operation.

Aft-loading clamshell doors on the C-97 aircraft permit advanced delivery techniques, including parachute drops, low-altitude extraction of palletized cargo and touch-and-go extrusion of whole cargo loads.

O'Quinn said planners of the Flight Test Research airlift concept include logistics expert Dr. William V. Wright and engineer Earle T. Binckley, under whose direction some of the methods were developed.

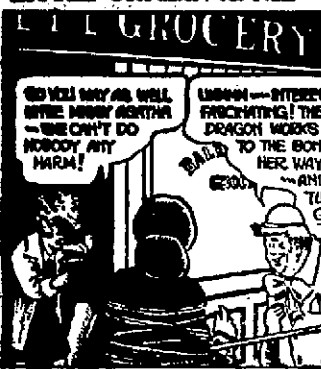

In addition to conducting research programs and flight testing of products for the aerospace industry, Flight Test Research has participated in previous relief airlift operations. Last October FTR rebuilt two surplus Vietnam combat helicopters for UNICEF-Red Cross relief work and set up their operation in Nigeria.

PRISCILLA'S POP

YOUR HOROSCOPE by JEANE DIXON

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY

Your birthday today: Practical application is the key for your activities during the coming year. Everything you touch may well turn into a dividend. The art of getting along with people outside your community becomes important to success. Today's natives diversity, and usually possess much energy for the pursuit.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You are tempted to overdo; take it easy. Loved ones are restless for you while friendly argue. Restrain your impatience; you'll be said you did when you near the end of the year.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Partnership or marriage matters are responsive to fine nuances. What you say and do become extremely important. The relationship may be worth more than control of the decision.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Bring your people out to help in the community. Charming activities back and forth isn't the answer. Meditate and rest. Opportunely (terrors).

CANCER (June 21-July 20): Get out early, stay out and enjoy. Some half-forgotten promise may be abruptly filled. Accept invitations for fun.

LEO (July 21-Aug. 20): This is a friendly, family sort of Sunday. Everybody has his own around him, and it's good to share with male and younger people. Invites guests or find a lively party in the evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): In spite of the lighter-than-air Sunday traffic, you tend to find the route hazardous or fanned. Allow enough time and enjoy a good talk with anybody going with you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Affection, love respect are there for you (appearing to what you've been tolerating). Make the day enjoyable, memorable. Bring young people into the evening doing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Good news from distant places is likely. Offer or accept invitations freely. Get your favorite music going and share it with intimates.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): The urge is to rush to into a distressed friend before you have the whole picture. You overline early, then find out there is a lot more to do before you can quit.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Those who love you understand and make allowances. Those who don't can easily get wrong impressions. The evening becomes peaceful and you can have some good fun.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your ideas follow yesterday's pattern. Let them ride along until another line of activity beckons. Physical sports and hobbies are added to evening. Relax early.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Spend the day exploring. Everybody you know introduces you to somebody new. If you charm your way along the chain.

JOE LITTLEFIELD

While our daffodils, ranunculus, Dutch iris, anemones, Dutch hyacinths and tulips are growing actively and getting ample drinks of water, there are other kinds of bulbs you can plant for late spring, and some that will bloom when the favorite spring bulbs have finished flowering.

They are hybrid amaryllis, lesser known but spectacular blooming allium giganteum, and Easter lily type but colorful flowering scale lilies that should be planted now.

All these bulbs may be grown in the sun, the scale lilies where they get some shade. They may be left in the ground for three or four years before they need to be dug up, separated, soil replenished then replanted.

There's a clump of bulbs in our sunny flower bed that we've nicknamed the "Thanksgiving Lilies" because they begin to bloom during the Thanksgiving season. They are Nerine "pink triumphant." For two years in a row they flowered belatedly, usually two or three days after Thanksgiving. Last year they burgeoned forth three days before that holiday.

The foot or taller stalks are topped with graceful spider-lily shape glowing pink flowers that last for about three weeks or longer, thereby earning their allotted garden space. The foliage eventually dies down.

A knobby rooted overgrown iris planting that should have been dug up and divided a year or two ago can be pepped up to flower better this spring than it would if left alone.

Day or two after a good watering or a rain, spread evenly a quarter-inch layer of manure and water well. Water several times a few days apart, then normally. Month later apply three cupsful of plant food containing less nitrogen than phosphoric acid per 100 square feet of planting area and water well.

Some of you gardeners probably will be surprised at this feeding recommendation, especially the manure around the iris. We've done it professionally, with our "reputation on the line," to an iris planting containing some very unusual and expensive varieties of iris whose overgrown plants had pushed up the rhizomes an inch or so above the soil level.

The owner wouldn't let us dig up and replant them, yet wanted good flowers. We followed up on the manuring and feeding in early month of December, using more manure and plant food than recommended at this time.

Come blooming season those flowers were larger and richer color. The petals seemed to have a sheen. Several years later, in an Eastern garden magazine, a writer stated he had used manure around his iris and believed that the iris probably would happily grow even on a pile of manure.

Q. Please tell me when it is best to fertilize my Fuerte avocado tree. Have been told to do this just before it starts to bloom. Just when do they start blooming? Also some fruit this year have had little stringlike fibers in them. What is the cause of this and will the fertilizing help this condition? Mary M. Little.

A. Your fruit-bearing tree indicates you've had it for four years or longer. By now you should know approximately when it starts to bloom better than anyone else can tell you. Fertilize the tree in the spring. The final feeding should be done four to six weeks before the blooms appear. Yes, fertilization would be an important factor in improving the fruit quality.

DO IT NOW

GROW some lily of the valley "pips" in a cool area of the garden where they'll have room to multiply and spread out, plus several hours of early forenoon or late afternoon sun. Set them out in the prepared soil composed of bone meal and organic material, mixed with the soil. Do not separate the pips (bare root plants) if some are connected together by an underground root growth.

ATTACK crabgrass weed seeds, spurge seeds and other grass and small broad-leaf weed seeds in dichondra lawn only by using an herbicide that is a weed-seed inhibitor (seed killer). Apply the herbicide as recommended on the container label, but follow through with several applications. This is the sneaky, effective way to combat the weed problem during the winter. There are dichondra turf fertilizers that contain herbicides to kill the weed seeds so they won't sprout. The dichondra lawn is fed at the same time. January is an important month to feed dichondra.

SMARTEST thing gardeners can do with frost-damaged plants is leave them alone. Don't cut back the damaged leafage or branches. The frosted foliage browns and dies and add a slight bit of protection to remainder branches or bases of plants. Water the plants if they need it, but do it preferably in the forenoon. When frost danger is past and new growth has developed, cut back the dead foliage. Cut the dead branch growth just above the topmost new growth.
